

I am most concerned about Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to air "Stolen Hour" before the election. They are saying that it is news. From the reviews I have read, it is more like an infomercial against John Kerry.

The public airwaves belong to the public, and it is the FCC's job to be the public watchdog as we allow companies to make a profit using our airwaves. Although I know the fairness doctrine is no longer applicable, such blatant abuse of the public trust needs to be answered by denying Sinclair a license renewal.

Thank you.
